

Arab Strap, Trippy

Emma phoned me at work at about half four
It was funny I didn't speak to her anyway
She's a fking cow better than everybody
Kinda speaking to her mates anyway like that
Anyway we got into the time and she phones me up asked me what I'm doing tonight
I was only gonna sit in and watch the telly as usual wonder where everyone else was So she says come round to rab's house and that we got some trips in

So I say I'd go round about six
I was about an hour late and I was knocking on the door and that and nobody answered
And I thought oh fking brilliant they are way out with litman and that They'll be way out on the town having a laugh
So I walk back round the road cos I thought they were way out and I phoned

Turns out they'd still been there but had been so out of it they couldn't even get to the door
So I went back round
Everybody was fine as usual and I got handed my half
And I thought I'd take it kind as I'm working the next day I better not go to far
But two hours later nothing is happening so I thought fk it I'll take the rest which I'd been warned a

Everyone was eh jumping about the room as usual, sitting giggling, having a laugh
Then jeg came in his car and took us to the pub
We told jeg he should be a ranker, that was a fking laugh
He kept telling to calm down and that like he was like our mum and dad and that
'cause we were acting like wayne's and that giggling and looking at the table and dropping our drink
We made it back his car, jon finnyinto the house then he said park it out and go home
So malcom and I get back to the house
And suddenly somebody's going on about rabner and he's still fking there
And he's waiting outside now and looks like he's in pain or something like that He had to go and pick up some of there stuff 'cause they'd used the other stuff for glastonbury the
And somebody had said he had apparently took some and he was writhing about in pain outside
So malcom and I walked out
He's was walking along the edge of road on the grass and that
With his fking stomach held in his hands and screaming and that

And then we lost him he disappeared into the park we didn't know where he was
So malc and I were walking about and then we found him
But we decided we better stay back a bit kind just in case he got a fright
So we followed him up this path as thought that wasn't going to scare him anyway
When we did find him he was there doubled up in pain fking screaming his eyes out
Groaning about how his stomach was knotted and that he shouldn't be taking it, it was a stupid thing
So he sitting there on the hill and that with malc and I on either side
All we could do was sit giggle and look at the grass and take the piss out of him

So we get him up on his feet and start walking him about and he says he's alright

And we walked up to the garage and he's going on about his stomach
Then he starts shouting about how we should get away from him before something happens

(get away get away)

In case he fking dies or something
So he says he thought he was that fking bad that's was going to happen and he dinne want us to (get away get away)

He always looked out for everyone else

(get away get away)

So we took him into the garage he wanted a bottle of irn bru
He was fking downing this bottle of irn bru talking about his fking stomach and how he'd taken t
Talking about it's already in his bile, he's desperately trying to make himself sick and he's screamin

And malc and I are still laughing we din care what he's up too
He could have taken anything I dunno
Maybe he on the way, could have injected something,
Could have swallowed something nobody knows
But he just stood there with this rotten fking face
It was all black and cut on the ride into town

He's half feed his bottle of irn bru and he's been sick
All over the fking place.....
Screaming all the fking time about
How it was all in the fking bile and how he wanted to be sick
He keeps fking screaming
Then he threw up

So we walked on back to the house saturation made us swear
We would tell nobody
So he goes back to the house and he fking tells everybody
He sloaked himself in his room and started eating a bag of sugar
Or something like that While everyone else was talking what a dick he was

I ended at up at the park that night
Sitting eating pringles with paula and watching the wildlife
And the next day I went to work I was still out of my face
I was pacing about on the stairs talking to myself
And writing things and he walked in
And stressed the point about making sure that no one would find out