

Ari Koivunen, Hear my call

Early in the morning
I'm still wide awake
It's hard to sleep
I'm lying on the floor
Hours keep on rolling
I wonder if I'm late
Gotta get a grip
I'm falling more and more
Have a little faith
Just a little trust in me
I need your belief
To have my relief
To set me free
Can you hear me calling your name?
I'm trying to reach out to you
Take my hand now
Or fake it somehow
Because I just can't take the truth
Hear me calling your name
I feel I'm depending on you
My heart's bursting out
I scream and I shout
Can you hear my call?
There are moments when I feel so weak
And times when I feel down
But I always fight it back
And stand my ground
Have a little faith
Just a little trust in me
I need your belief
To have my relief
To set me free
Can you hear me calling your name?
I'm trying to reach out to you
Take my hand now
Or fake it somehow
Because I just can't take the truth
Hear me calling your name
I feel I'm depending on you
My heart's bursting out
I scream and I shout
Can you hear my call?
They say that the wounds will never heal
And the scars will remain, no matter what you feel
Just live your life your own way
Don't give a damn what they say
Higher you climb
Harder you fall
That makes you stronger than all
Can you hear me calling your name?
I'm trying to reach out to you
Take my hand now
Or fake it somehow
Hear me calling your name
I scream and I shout
Can you hear my call?
