

Ari Koivunen, Sign Of Our Times

What if today
You had the chance
To be the king of your land
Would you be strong
Could you stand tall
Or would you fall from
Fear
Of the light
And the sight
Of what you would leave behind
Seize the moment of your Coronation
To live it over
And defy the hands of time
These are the days you will remember
These are your lines, you have to scream them aloud
This is the life you lead, your moment's now
You'll remain a sign, a sign of our times
Is there redemption
Or just oblivion
For the weak
" What have I built
What has collapsed
What was it worth "
Seek
Trough your mind
And you'll find
All that you have left behind
Seize the moment
To defy the hands of time
These are the days you will remember
These are your lines, you have to scream them aloud
This is the life you lead, your moment's now
You'll remain a sign, a sign of our times
By tomorrow we'll be gone
When all is said and all is done
Forgotten like last winter's snow
These are the days you will remember
These are your lines, you have to scream them aloud
This is the life you lead, your moment's now
You'll remain a sign, a sign of our times
