

Article One, Never Too Late To Call

On days like today, grace has a way of sounding too good to be true
Could it be easy to forgive and undo
You chose your direction, lost all connections
Slowly you're falling apart
You call it searching, to find out who you are
I still remember the hope in your eyes
Time is waiting
We were the best when we stood side by side
The bridges have not burned down
I hope you come around
And how far you fall
It doesn't matter at all
It's never too late to call
Can't stop your world from spinning in circles
Now it's caught up with your life
I'll pray from a distance for the tears that you cry
We've all cut corners, all fallen short
There's lessons to learn from mistakes
In need of forgiveness, we all stand the same
I still remember when you lost your way
Time stood standing
The darker your night, the brighter your day
Love will light your way
Heaven waits the same
We were the best when we stood side by side
