Ascension Of The Watchers, Violet Morning

Violet Morning full of grace A new dawning on my face A flower blooming every day You pierced my soul and touched my faith You are the light for my love You are the love for my God Violet Morning I feel you shine Enlightening my space and time In your warmth my heart did find A pure soul, a love divine The only light in my eyes The only love of my life You are the light for my love You are the love for my God The only light in my eyes The only love of my life You are my morning sun You are the light where I begun full of grace A new dawning on my face A flower blooming every day You pierced my soul and touched my faith You are the light for my love You are the love for my God Violet Morning I feel you shine Enlightening my space and time In your warmth my heart did find A pure soul, a love divine The only light in my eyes The only love of my life You are the light for my love You are the love for my God The only light in my eyes The only love of my life You are my morning sun You are the light where I begun