

Asking Alexandria, A Candlelit Dinner With Inamorta

This isn't over baby, don't believe a word they said!
But then,
She takes a moment to ponder.
To wonder what could've been, given another chance.
To find a light in the darkness and a way out of this.
If only she could see what I can see.
She takes a moment to stumble to her feet.
If only I was there to hold her hand.
If only she saw what I saw.
She'd get out of this one.
She'd get out of here.
What burns the most is that you lied right to my face.
And still I hold your hand to set you free.
With eyes closed,
Her heart breaks.
And through it all she brought this on herself.
For me, for you, the fallen, save her
For me, for us, for good, save her
Save her.
She falls beside me.
She brought this on herself.
This song's for you.
With eyes closed,
Her heart breaks.
And through it all she brought this on herself.