

Aslan, Rainman

I sat on top of the world
Saw the man that shook the hand
That held the world to it's knees
I crawled in the lowest place
I met God, touched his face
He was lonely, he was heaven, he was me
I spoke to the rainman
Looks like he was so sad
If I should lose my faith in God
If I should lose my faith in love
Will I go to heaven
If I should fall before I crawl
Smash my face against a wall
Is this really heaven
Heaven
I spoke to the same man and he said
I was a little too far gone
This was useless information to me
We spoke for far too long
About God, and that's not on
He was lonely, he was heaven, he was me
I spoke to the rainman, looks like he was so sad
If I should lose my faith in God
If I should lose my faith in love
Will I go to heaven
If I should fall before I crawl
Smash my face against a wall
Is this really heaven
Heaven
If I should lose my faith in God
If I should fall before I crawl
Is this really heaven
If I should lose my faith in God
If I should lose my faith in love
Will I go to heaven
If I should fall before I crawl
Smash my face against a wall
Is this really heaven
La La La La La.....
If I should lose my faith in God
If I should lose my faith in love
Will I go to heaven
If I should fall before I crawl
Smash my face against a wall
Is this really heaven
Is this really heaven
Is this really heaven
Am I in heaven
Is this really heaven
I sat on top of the world
Saw the man that shook the hand
That held the world to it's knees