I sat and thought the other day how it seems strange
That we could walk through life so blind
And how a lot of people never change.
Im not trying to say I have the answer
All I know for sure is that we werent put here
To serve ourselves, thats so selfish
To think that were put on this earth just for pleasure
I know that theres much more than that.
But I wont tell you what it is; its up to you
To decide for yourself what is wrong and what is right
And know that we all make mistakes, theres always time
To turn your life around and change
All the wrong decisions that youve made.
And I promise that I wont settle for less.
I wont write it off.
