Ataxia, Addition

Well that is what we cry Feelings we keep inside And you are not in the right And you've no reason to hide It's that we must collide Nothing can overwrite And you are not on my side And we will never arrive

Be quiet at times to learn That's /Life's about to take a turn And I am fixing to burn From which I'll not return A little bit of love From somebody above Life is addition in any way There's no such time now as today, today

Saw you walking back from a nightmare Won't change what you're to do, well I don't care I grew up there and I wasn't scared I am from there, I was born there

Forgive me if I cry Look when you lifted the sky Everybody emptied their slime Those memories stole my side

And will you sit by my side, If me not live past tonight? Life isn't here and so streaming What was the feeling to stream again, stream again?

I am becoming a voyeur I am a small man, I told ya I don't miss coming at all

Saw you walking back from a nightmare Won't change what you're to do, well I don't care I grew up there and I wasn't scared I am from there, I was born there

Well that is what we cry Feelings we keep inside And you are not in the right And you've no reason to hide That's when we must collide Nothing can overwrite And you are not by my side And we will not arrive

Saw you walking back from a nightmare Won't change what you're to do, well I don't care I grew up there and I wasn't scared I was born there, I am from there