

ATB, Long Way Home

Im kicking that stone
Down your street alone
And the walls criticize where I have gone
Im throwing that stone
Through your open door
And the halls seem to tell me that I am wrong
Im taking the long way home
Where everythings overgrown
Just like the boy
Trying to give it away
I regret tomorrow
I'm taking the long way home
Whatever may come and go
Just like the boy
Trying to give it away
I regret tomorrow more than yesterday
Remember that wall
Where we used to hide
And the world seemed so dark and cold outside
Remember that field
Where we used to kiss
And the rain washed away our secret list
Im taking the long way home
Where everythings overgrown
Just like the boy
Trying to give it away
I regret tomorrow
I'm taking the long way home
Whatever may come and go
Just like the boy
Trying to give it away
I regret tomorrow more than yesterday
Nobodys home
And I feel lost inside
Theres a clock counting down
Whats left of time
When youre all alone
Its easy to hesitate
Like a girl listening to her heart break
Im taking the long way home
Where everythings overgrown
Just like the boy
Trying to give it away
I regret tomorrow
I'm taking the long way home
Im taking the long way home
Just like the boy
Trying to give it away
I regret tomorrow
Just like the boy
Trying to give it away
