We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union
And to have men like Columbus, dasota, lewis and clark, kit Carson, Daniel boone, davy crockett, e

Does life stop when the work stops,
Or does work stop when this heart stops?
Writers block more threatening to this poet than clogged arteries.
But centuries of movements, evolutions and improvements dissolving into me osmosisly
See, I soak in the evolution, got that 6th sense and intuition,
That kind you get when you're born with ovaries and fallopians
Forever connecting me to my family's matriarchy
To which I am the only survivor well, sort of.

See I,
Never underestimate the power of a woman.
A sacred feminine not man-hating, just trying to get Even, just trying to get Some control over those controllers because
We just can't c-o-n-t-roll with it anymore.

Angela davis to suffrage.
Gloria steinam to francis perkins,
Sharlie hunter to rosa parks,
Alice walker and bell hooks
And all those womyn you may have heard of called witches and bitches, Whores and sinners because,
Like dan brown said, history is always written by the winners.

So, what will the future textbooks say
That the revolution was built this way
A twine into thick rope; a braid made by feminists and Trans-activists. Visionaries and radical faeries.
Antiracists and hackers.
Grown men and distractors.
Whistle blowers. Door openers.
My grandma, my mom, and me.

Circumstance? Naw.
Come lay with me. Come walk beside me in camaraderie
Because, like MLK, I got a dream in me, and You got a dream in you. I know you do.

Now, if you can dream it, you can have it
If you can see it, you can get it
If you can reach for it, you can touch it
See, you just got to believe to get it
And know I'm wit it. Know what I'm saying?
