

Atom And His Package, Intro

*speaking*

Uhh so, hi! Thank you very very much for many things, thanks. Umm, thanks for clapping now. Thanks. Umm, first of all thank you for sticking around through the nastiness that is in this room, and uhh well so yea. Whoops. Uhh yea I'm Atom from over there, I write songs on music sequencers and synthesizers and play them alot, and uhh. So, this is the last show that I'm playing at this. So thank you very very much for coming, umm thanks thats very nice. Umm so yea I know alot of people have come from a really flattering distance, and uhh alot of people have said some very touching things to me so thanks very much, I will stop saying things now and here are lots of songs. This is gonna be a long thing so we'll all be dead. YEA! Hey John, could you turn up the vocals and the moniter just a hair and then songs will be played. Okay, so thanks very much, very all very hot already so ve might as well, i dunno, i hope you enjoy this. Lets have big dance party. Okay, your right, this is a song about the metric system and how wise it is. Thank you, And it's a song about how its embarassing to meet anyone else from any other country, except for part of England I suppose, and why we should kill ourselves.
