

August Premier, Fall

i wonder if we'll ever see through this i wonder if we'll ever come undone i wonder if the world will fall apart before we get a chance to get it right and we've seen everything a million times and we've heard all about tomorrow and we've done everything a million times yet we're still scared to see tomorrow

and everything changes

i've never been the one to move so fast i've always been the one to finish last
i wonder if the world will fall apart i don't think that we have a chance at all

and we've seen everything a million times
and we've heard all about tomorrow
and we've done everything a million times
yet we're still scared to see tomorrow
and everything changes

you're not helping me yet and everything we know is wrong so now we'll get it right

and we've seen everything a million times
and we've heard all about tomorrow
and we've done everything a million times
yet we're still scared to see tomorrow
and everything changes

and the world is screaming for something new
and the world is screaming for something new
and the world is screaming for something new and the world is screaming