

Autopassion, What You Say

Watch your manners and be nice
I'm told that it's better to quiet
So if you think that I was laughing
Better look around
If you think that I was talking
Ask just what about
I don't have to explain

What's the reason you can't believe me
Thought to muse it, then forgot it
Not a joke, it is too expensive
Can't afford to pay attention

And we could argue 'bout it all night
Shall we continue to fight
Just bite your tongue
Cause you know it suits you best
You, you add it up
And you see just what you get

I've simply never seen the proof
To say that it's at all of any use
Oh, hush your mouth
And don't you let nothing slip through

What's it feeling so
Take my own advice
Cannot seem to know
Cannot seem to think it twice

If I think I ask even for a slight
Shall we continue to fight
I don't think that's very nice
I know that it's better to quiet
So if you think that I was laughing
Better look around
If you think that I was talking
Then just what about
I don't have to explain

I'm only trying not to repeat
Cause what we've done
Has been wasting time for week
Oh, hush your mouth
Cause if you can't, I'll have to

I've had enough
Now you know it suits me best
To be quiet now
Keep the words down in my chest

I've had enough
Now you know it suits me best
To be quiet now
Keep the words down in my neck
