Avail, Blue Times Two

god i feel like hell for myself and you and i hate myself to end absolute walking still below ceilings going round and round nine in the evening now and i ain't never shared more than times allowed without you leading i could just stay and fight oh i'd still feel justified but i don't always do what i intend my mind stands to fail with or without much deatail and for that it's far too late standing still but not believing that talking round and round will a solve everything right now and i ain't never dared let a word slip out do you breathe when speaking? cause i've been here all night and you talked your throat fucking dry did you even mean a word you said? my mind stands to fail with or without much detail and i can do without distractions god i feel like hell for myself and you and i hate myself to end so absolute my mind stands to fail with or without much detail it's best left unsaid let's accept mistakes were made