Avail, Versus

silence, silence all sides raw with indecision without the mind to congregate in fault the line extends to further burden divided friends silence all sides why bother to defy when we still can't unite so put your fist down until sanity can be contained we burn out before we fade away losing time and not changing anything burn out we isolate, rather stand alone than divided stuck on lines deplete chant slogans timed one step off beat full loss of common sense when passion becomes status end silence, silence all sides why bother to defy when we still can't unite so put your fist down until sanity can be contained what's been said has spread like fire to all it takes no strength to pass blame we burn out before we fade away losing time and not changing anything burn out we isolate, rather stand alone than divided
