Avalon, Alien Nation

In the heat of the violence The night's exploding everywhere When hate pulls the trigger The devil comes to take his share In the garden of Eden The time is running out so fast Into the heart of the demon With no escape our die is cast In the city of angels Death is just a moment away In the city of angels Your future won't see the light of the day Beware of the alien nation Beware of the truth that they seek They pray for eternal salvation They pray for your soul to keep On the eve of destruction A reign of terror rules the street When the heads start rolling The devil comes to let it bleed In the city of angels Death is just a moment away In the city of angels Your future won't see the light of the day Walk on past the alien nation Walk on to the end of your reach No fear of the alien nation No fear of the hatred they preach Don't run, there's no place to hide Today or tomorrow it will get you Don't move, the knife is right at your throat And whatever you do, there's no way out When the shroud comes down on this place To bury us all alive We'll know the time has come To face the heat Beware of the alien nation Beware of the truth that they seek They pray for eternal salvation They pray for your soul to keep