Averman, Cooler

I've chosen to neglect the things I heard you said because they never meant half as much as you meant to yourself. You don't care about anyone else. "When you turn your back on your friends, I don't know how you sleep at night" You don't have to say your sorry. I'll still think that you're an asshole. People change, but I feel fine, people change but I feel fine. I found my way of ridding stress, screaming as loud as I can just to test my voice. And I want the world to know that you're a piece of shit. As fucked up as that is. I feel fine