

AVIANA, Transcendent

Trust the unexpected from your demise
Your world will die and crumble in time
All the love is infected by your mistakes
Spreading lies where the pig lays for your own sake

Burn my house to the ground
You win you're getting your crown
You're saying nothing at all
You think you've got it all

You think you burned it all down
With nowhere else to turn
You tried to settle down
But you forgot them
Now you're the one to chase
No one to help you out babe

I've been trying to find myself in this common world
I've been trying to find myself in this common world
I've been trying to find myself in this common world
I've been trying to find myself in this common world

Questions of your mistakes by god himself
And all you are is what he replaced
You're protected by his golden pen
With all your life you put comfort in him

You said you wanted to rescue me
But you refused to take the meds

You think you burned it all down
With nowhere else to turn
You tried to settle down
But you forgot them
Now you're the one to chase
No one to help you out babe

You better look at yourself in the mirror
Watch me
You better look at yourself and what you've done

You better look at yourself in the mirror
Watch me
You better look at yourself

You made me question everything
My time on this earth was left in vain
I questioned everything

I followed trail after trail
Searching for my dreams
And nothing's made me believe

I followed trail after trail
Searching for my dreams
And nothing's made me believe

Destined