

Azure Ray, No Sign Of Pain standing in front of you they fade into the wall and leave behind nothing nothing at all and no i don't understand how they forget when so much has passed us by they take what they can get and no i don't understand how weightless they must be without feeling without feeling without feeling and grasping with fingernails as they tear through your skin leaving no signs of pain your wounds to mend

and no i don't understand how they forget
when so much has passed us by they take what they can get
and no i don't understand how weightless they must be
without feeling without feeling without feeling

and no i don't understand how they forget
when so much has passed us by they take what they can get
and no i don't understand how weightless they must be
without feeling without feeling without feeling