B.B. King, A World Full Of Strangers

You and me don't see eye to eye On every little thing We've missed a lot of sunshine And caught a lot of rain If you want to leave I can't make you stay But there is something I have to say

No matter how high you get Or how low you go There's one thing darling You ought to know

There's a world full of strangers out there A world full of strangers Beware There's a world full of strangers out there And if it gets too strange Just come on home

Restless hearts, looking for a love Are waiting in the street They're all prepared to give you The bitter with the sweet If you wake someday and you reach for me Well you know, this is where I'll be

No matter how high you get Or how low you go There's one thing darling You ought to know

There's a world full of strangers out there A world full of strangers Beware There's a world full of strangers out there And if it gets too strange Just come on home
