Babylon Zoo, All The Money's Gone

Riding into town
On the wave of a crowd
Your Majesty,
They call him the Leopard Prince

Word is going around There's a Groover in town Your eminence Calling out the Leopard Prince.

I, I've been missing
All the love you have to share
It's my premonition
Now it's plain to see
That you were meant for me.

Loving isn't physical.

All the money's gone But I feel satisfied for once And my friends they play dead What a crazy world.

Shooting up the town He's a fool on the prowl

Your trajesty, They call him the Leopard Prince.

People all around
Grab a piece of his crown
Humility
Unveiling of the Leopard Prince.

I should have listened To the words you have to say It's my premonition That now it's plain to see That you were meant for me.

Loving isn't physical.

All the money's gone But I feel satisfied for once And my friends they play dead What a crazy world

The money's gone

The money's gone
