

Backfire!, I Remember

i remember

i remember you told me she was the one i remember you told me a new life had begun she was the one who made you change your ways she was the one who promised you better days i remember you told me it was meant to be it all felt so good, it all felt so right i but as time passed by your dreams slowly died i remember the times we used to hang out i remember the times we laughed so loud about suckers who settled down so young and how all their dreams were over and done i remember you told me it would never happen to you

it all felt so good, it all felt so right but now i can see the pain in your eyes cause now you're stuck (life sentence!) now you're stuck in a life that you don't defend where are your ideals, where the fuck do you stand did you forget what we once screamed so loud now see how you turned out

i remember...

i remember...