

Bad Examples, Me And My Near-Blind Hindsight

Theres other girls, and then theres you
And then theres me trapped between and wondering what to do
You push me away, but I wont go
And Im not sure which one of us to blame anymore
If you could sell me to the camel drivers
Id be led away blindfolded in the night
Me and my near blind hindsight
Theres honesty and then theres truth
And theres a thin but unmoving line between the two
Youve never lied through your teeth
Unless you count the things you hid from yourself as well as me
If you could sell me to the camel drivers
Id be led away blindfolded in the night
If you could feed me to the lion trainers
Youd let the gods decide if I was wrong or right
Theres me and my regrets, and me and my excuses
Theres my brilliant misdirections and my adamant confusion
Theres me and all the things that I never could get right
And me and my nearblind hindsight
Theres other girls, and then theres you
And then theres me trapped between and wondering what to do
I should have known, but I dont know yet
That the human heart can only love the things it can forget
Me and my near blind hindsight
Me and my near blind hindsight
Me and my near blind hindsight
