Bad Religion, Politics

Economy, technology, doesn't really work Can't try runnin' for government, I'm not a jerk I've tried to see these faces all around the way You're lucky if they listen to a single word you say What is right and what is wrong, the government decides You don't have no rights at all, as long as you don't fight We're all being oppressed by the upper middle class The government you vote for is the one that you put there I've put down enough dues, I'm due and so are you Residents fear the president, I'm not the government We ignore the masses of the whole entire race Men in suits are all they knew, without a happy face Economy, technology, doesn't really work Can't try runnin' for government, just another jerk I've tried to see these faces all around the way You're lucky if they listen to a single word you say