

Badlees, Just One Moment

Badlees
Miscellaneous
Just One Moment
badlees/just_one_moment

Written by Alexander

Quote: A man is rich in proportion to the things he can afford to let alone (Henry David Thoreau)

SONG LYRICS:

Hypocrisy as it oughta be, that's called good business
Sometimes it really bothers me how I got in this Took this job a-thinkin' I'd be movin' up someday
Been too busy drinkin' to be carin' either way
The wife she ain't been workin' 'cause her time is growin' near
But the IRS ain't takin' no sabbaticals this year
Been working on commission against weekly guarantees
This soldier's on a mission but it ain't for charity

CHORUS:

Give me just one moment with the wheel between my hands
Just one moment, I'll make you understand
Don't confuse all the games you lose with failing as a man
Just one moment, I'll show you who I am

Went in to see the boss man to ask him for a raise Never did quite understand all the reasons that he gave His "x" of Jesus had turned it's back to me
I guess mortal men can't comprehend that dense morality
So I bought my wife some roses, and tied them with a bow
Called the boss up at 3 AM and I told him where to go
Now we're driving down the highway back to where we first began
With me back in the driver's seat and her holding my hand

Repeat Chorus

END

Terry Mingle
Cornell Univ.
Physiology Dept.