Badly Drawn Boy, This Is That New Song

And if I knew the answers I would tell you now Just what would be the chances That I could show you how If I knew where all the tears were coming from Add up all the years that you've been gone This is that new song I told you about twenty years ago

Do you know what true romance is And could you show me now Just what would be the chances That I could tell you how If I new where all the tears were flowing to I'd guide them to a river Where I'd swim with you down stream This is that old dream I told you about twenty years ago

And could you hold me now