

Ballas Hough Band, Underwater

When your sky is falling down
And your green is turning brown
And you can't go any longer
When your friends are all away
And you lose track of the days
And you're not getting any stronger
I remember when you held me underwater
I can't help it, but it's something I don't wanna be a part of
But my eyes cry gently, and I can't hide
You make feel so lost
So lost inside
And you don't get it, how hard I've tried
You make me feel so lost,
so lost inside
Well, that's how I'm feeling
Every midnight, every morning
And lately it's been starting to really get old
Oh, I miss you but believe me I won't be calling
After your last performance
It's really getting old
I remember how you held me underwater
Feeling helpless, and it's something I don't wanna be a part of
But my eyes cry gently and I can't hide
You make me feel so lost
So lost inside
And you don't get it, how hard I've tried
You make me feel so lost
So lost inside
Why do I always feel alone
When you're standing here by my side?
Why does it never feel like home?
Well, when I look in your eyes,
It's no surprise that this heart is never healing
I know I'll be fine
Said I know I'll be fine
I remember how you held me underwater
Feeling helpless, and it's something I don't wanna be a part of
But these eyes cry gently and I can't hide
You make me feel so lost
So lost inside
And you don't get it, how hard I've tried
You make me feel so lost
So lost inside
