

Bamboozlers, Light Years

hello' goodbye' leave me alone don't wanna be with anyone lie awake in bed my eyes are closed I bet you think I'm wasted hit me if you think it's worth it if you think I've crossed the line I'll see you somewhere out there I know you think I'm crazy or a schizo maybe or a fiend addict but I know you faked it coz lies are what we have in your world read all the books of life looked at myself where did the years go?
They're lost within the pages of time something about it make me something about it takes me something about you makes me high so high me and my folk guitar we've seen a glimpse of the wild world it's beautiful it's crazy a lot of people that we know they talked about us they say we've lost it they're too far away from venus I say if they know what we know we'll see them somewhere out there coz the light years from now they'll find it somehow coz it's beautiful out there
