

Banks Tony, Angel Face

Banks Tony

Still

Angel Face

Are you ready for the rest of your life

Does your comforter provide

Are you ready to remain evermore in your world of ice

Are your feelings all locked inside

Are you a woman or just a mannequin

Does your heart beat like the rest

Do you ever feel like joining in with the human race

Or are you happier outside?

But now you've gone you broke the spell

I've got no memories just a photograph

I've got the best there is of you

You're just a devil with a pretty angel face

You've made your choice and that's ok

It never would have worked out anyway

I've got the best there is of you

You're just a devil with a pretty angel face

Will you be ready in your later life

When your looks are on the wane and you're thinking of the ones and the scores that you left behind

As they come to haunt your mind

And when the twilight moment comes at last and you have to face that nobody's there to care

But now you've gone you broke the spell

I've got no memories just a photograph

I've got the best there is of you

You're just a devil with a pretty angel face

You've made your choice and that's ok

It never would have worked out anyway

I've got the best there is of you

You're just a devil with a pretty angel face