

Barbara Mandrell, Woman To Woman (1978)

Barbara Mandrell

Miscellaneous

Woman To Woman (1978)

Hello, you dont know who this is but the reason Im calling you is because I was going through my mans pockets this morning and I just happen to find your name and number. So

Woman-to-woman if youve ever been in love
Than you know how I feel
And woman-to-woman now if you were in my shoes
Wouldnt you have done the same thing too?

Woman-to-woman Ive just got to make you to see
Woman-to-woman that you cant take him from me
Woman-to-woman (woman-to-woman) now I cant just step aside
And let you take what is rightfully mine

Woman-to-woman thats all wrong
I aint gonna let you take up my happy home
I hope you understand I love that man
And hes mine

Woman-to-woman thats all wrong
I aint gonna let you take up my happy home
I hope you understand I love that man
And hes mine

Woman-to-woman (woman-to-woman) if youve ever been in love
Than you know how I need him
And woman-to-woman now if you were in my shoes
Wouldnt you have done the same thing too?

Now woman-to-woman I just cant step aside
And let you take what I consider mine