

Barclay James Harvest, Do You Believe In Dreams

High, low, here we go
Hear the word
That floats upon the air above
Reach up, touch the night
Catch a light
That's falling on the only ones
The only ones

And the way you see your life
A case of "do or die"
Returns us to the way
It used to be before
And the future lies
In the years of sacrifice
You'll open up your eyes
And wake to see it
Standing at your door

Right time turn it on
Touch a heart
That's waiting for the only one
Night time, can't go wrong
Open up and sing the song
For everyone

And the way you see your life
A case of "do or die";
To preserve your sanity
When others lose control
And the years we spent
Heaven blessed or heaven sent
Sang where kings and presidents
Could change the world
Just standing at the wall!

Why, tell me why, don't you know
Do you believe in dreams?
Tell me where did they go?
Why did they leave us?

If you ask me I don't know.
Where did the music go?
After all is said and done
Same chance for everyone

If you ask us we can't say
When did the music go away
After all is said and done
Same chance for everyone

Why, tell me why, don't you know?
Do you believe in dreams?
Tell me where did they go?
Why did they leave us?
