

Barely Blind, Pariah

Your soul is just a vessel.
Floating empty down a street.
Your heart is just an organ.
Nothing profound about it.
So do what you think will make you feel.
As close to a human as people like you can feel.
Lily, you're the best
You showed me what a waste I've made
Of most everything
And, honestly, I'd like to say that the way you move
It makes me sick.
What an awful mess you've made.
You're the one that burnt my castle down
You gotta go right now and you're not sorry.
I was faced with opportunity.
You gotta go right now;
You gotta get away from me.
Could I strap you to a street sign?
And stretch you till your skin grows cold
Till your bones explode
Did you need it now?
I'm not one to think like this.
I'm usually not aware of myself
Or the things I say.
So do what you think will make you feel.
As close to a human as people like you can feel.
You're the one that burnt my castle down
You gotta go right now and you're not sorry.
I was faced with opportunity.
You gotta go right now, you gotta get away from me.
Pariah...
Your soul is just a vessel
Floating empty down a street
Your heart is just an organ
Nothing profound about it
I want to strap you to a street sign, nail you to the street
This is what you wanted
Wanted, baby