

Bedouin Soundclash, Walls Fall Down

When the walls come down on your old town, then you begin.

See I had these walls, built up so strong
Built when I was young in wars I won,
Fortified alone, stone upon stone,
So tall I could not see beyond my wall

But all walls fall down, and all walls fall down,
And when walls come down on your hometown,
Then you begin

A but unassured, a bit insecure
I climbed up and I saw the world I lacked
And my first stone cracked, foundations collapsed
Standing on the ground in stone I'd found

That all walls fall down, and all walls fall down,
And when walls come down on your ol' town,
Then you begin

Governor of the land, from where you stand
Beneath a shelter built by many hands
There is a storm, and you've locked the door
On people you once were you gave a war

And your walls fall down, walls fall down,
Walls fall down, like a stone comes down
And I'm no stone, I'm just no stone
Says he's a stone, no man's a stone
