Bee Gees, I Could Not Love You More

Now that we're alone no more hide and seek You are the highest dream to me and as you softly sleep Then I can tell you what it means Locked in my arms like lovers lie I will not let you slip away Is this the summer of them all, is this my night of nights That you came to stay Here you are, owner of my heart Just the way that love should be And there is something I must say to you If you promise to believe that it's you I'm living for And I could not love you more Seasons may come and season go But these are the truest words I know Face to face, eye to eye This is the summer of our lives One love that cannot die Here you are, owner of my soul Never let you say goodbye And there is something I must say to you We leave the world outside And you have come to me at last, we start Open up your heart, let my deepest love inside I'm only doing what I have to do If you promise to believe that it's you I'm living for And I could not love you more
