

Behind Enemy Lines, Her Body, Her Decision?

When does a woman's choice belong to her and not to man or myth?

When does a woman's body belong to her and not to man or myth?

George w. Bush vowed to overturn Roe vs. Wade by stacking the Supreme Court full of anti-choice advocates

While attorney general John Ashcroft swore to god that he'd keep religion out of it

This bloodthirsty Texas governor, become illegitimate president, has some fking nerve to call himself pro-life

He embodies the hypocritical, ignorant, sexist thinking that's so typical of the religious right

It's her body. It's her decision not that of state, man or religion

The pro-life movement is moral fraud

Fk their lies and fk their god

Our bodies are not a battlefield

Government and religion have proven throughout history that they do not place value on the sanctity of life

To now call themselves pro-life drastically misstates the position of those who are followers of a blood-soaked religion

Their fight is not about the sanctity of life

It's more about control and a woman's rightful role and how they should adhere to living their lives under men's supervision and the churches moral restrictions and contradictions

It's her body. It's her decision

Not that of state, man or religion

The pro-life movement is moral fraud

Fk their lies and fk their god

Our bodies are not a battlefield

Should we once again return to the days of desperation for women who would put their lives in jeopardy?

Going to extreme and dangerous measures to end an unwanted pregnancy

Instead of women having rightful access to a safe and legal medical procedure

Performed in a clean and sterile environment by a trained, qualified and competent doctor

Without being intimidated, harassed or threatened by the pitfalls of religious fanaticism

They exploit graphic, disgusting and misleading images to play on people's emotions and force their religion down our throats

By giving into this religious extortion women will have to resort to back alley abortions

Are the women who will suffer from enforcing this restriction really less important than fetus or fiction?

If you don't agree with abortion then don't fking have one

But you have no right to govern someone else's body with your arrogant, self-righteous indignation

It's her body. It's her decision

not that of state, man or religion

The pro-life movement is moral fraud

Fk their lies and fk their god

Our bodies are not a battlefield
