Bell Book and Candle, Heyo

Coming home there's now here now coming home there's now here now not here now and you ask me, how i feel, he's packed his bags. walked out on me. you probably wanna know what now, everything's left up to me coming home there's now here now coming home there's now here now not here now i'm lost in thought about our time can't get your name out of my brain and still your absence present here, why must this happen to me coming home there's now here now coming home there's now here now not here now let's open doors, a brandnew start abbandon tears wipe clear the slate got all my life ahead of me a different girl starts living