

Bella Morte, Mist And Stone

Bella Morte

Where Shadows Lie

Mist And Stone

There was a twilight in your eyes

Long before the end

When the shadows fell

Becoming one with night

Faith then followed you

Deep into the earth

To dream as dead men do

Of candles, mist and stone

To the timeless years windows open wide

The reigning silence dies as angels sing tonight

There was no laughter in your eyes

When we first embraced

As sorrows I've not known

Danced and swayed with grace

Follow me, my love

Into the coldest worlds

And be as we once were

If only 'til the day

And your eyes spoke of devotion

As I took your hand

For this age you'll wait forever

Though I shall be there

My spirit walks with you, my love
