

Belle Perez, How Can I Tell You

You're light years away from me
As if I have always known
I'm slowly losing my mind you see
I can't face life on my own

I hear your voice
And for one second I can see your face
You never gave me no choice
With you my world fell in its place oh

How can I tell you I love you
How can I show you I care
In a world where I've never met you
I know you must be somewhere out there
You're somewhere out there

I hope you will set me free
I'm sure you can understand
For what is and should never be
When all the heartaches end

I see your eyes
And for an instant I know your name
Then I realize
The chance on love will ease this pain oh

How can I tell you I love you
How can I show you I care
In a world that's too far beyond reason
I know you must be somewhere out there

My destiny is where you are
When I look up to the stars'

How can I tell you I love you
How can I show you I care
In a world that's too far beyond reason
I know you must be somewhere out there

Oh baby
How can I tell you I love you
How can I show you I care
In a world that's too far beyond reason
I know you must be somewhere out there
I know you must be somewhere out there
You're somewhere out there
You'