

Belvedere, All About Perspectives

The remote control feels like a shotgun
Discharging more nonsense through my head
No solidarity in what we are and what we see
I wanna smash the screen, through away the batteries

The remote control feels like a shotgun
Discharging more nonsense through my head
No solidarity in what we are and what we see
I wanna smash the screen, through away the batteries

Tearing apart our minds, directions of our lives
Sing if you can relate
These pictures are not our friends
Disturbing sensations
Pull out the plug, take them all away

Here's another season, here's another gag
Here's another sickness to make us react
Don't change the channel, change the medium
The world outside becomes the best escape

Don't change the channel
Try to change your mind
Take all the images away
Take them all....away
Take them all....away