

Belvedere, The Only Problem With Wishful Thinking

The only problem with wishful thinking

I wonder now how it would be if you fall into me never even questioning what's real.
Put a sign, avert your eyes
no questioning of our lives.
Why can't we embrace this world this way?

Always on time. Always accept my stories.
But never face the war when I need you.
Commit no crime. Commit no self-destruction.
I sit in front of you and take your hate away.

Wonder how my self-esteem could handle the blow motionless my hands fall at my side.
No one challenging your views, no pressure to make an excuse
Why can't we embrace this world this way?

Always on time. Always accept my stories.
But never face the war when I need you.
Commit no crime. Commit no self-destruction.
I sit in front of you and take your hate away.
