

Ben Kweller, Little Pink Star

Barefoot in the sand Wishing God would lend a hand Way back a wave comes crashing down washing away a little more ground seems to me that's how all things are you give and you take in little pink stars

i want the world to know that you're mine
i wanna touch you
i want the world to know that you're mine
i wanna feel you from the inside
i wanna touch you
i want the world to know that you're mine
i wanna touch you

Walking along with the ocean at my heels Loving the way the water feels Up in the sky something catches my eye Its bright as a star in the northern sky

seems to me that's how all things are
one world i know that you're mine i wanna touch you (yea yea)
i want the world to know that you're mine
i wanna feel you from the inside
i wanna touch you
i want the world to know that you're mine
i wanna touch you

seems to me that's how all things are
i want the world to know that you're mine i wanna feel u from the inside
i wanna touch you
i wanna touch you
