

Ben Lapidus, Parmesan Song (Parmesan Cheese)

When I get pasta at a restaurant and the waiter comes around with the parmesan cheese and he says
'parmesan?' and I say please

He gives me a spoonful and says would you like more and I say 'sure' as if it's no big deal as if it's not my reason for choosing an Italian restaurant in the the first place he looks at me and says
'is that good?' 'yeah that's good thanks'

I always want more parmesan but I'm embarrassed
I always want more parmesan but I'm embarrassed that's me

Why are they so stingy?
Is there a shortage of parmesan?
Is it really that expensive?
I just want more cheese, is that so wrong?
just leave it on the table for god's sake, I'm a grown-up I have rights and I will not be shamed for my cheese intake

I will not remain silent
I will not give in
I will die
I always want more parmesan
