

Bernard Fanning, Wish You Well up so early feel so bright didn't get much sleep last night freight train rattled through my head whistle blowing love is dead is dead

heart attacked by fear and doubt won't be long till the truth comes out first impressions never last lover's bonds they hold so fast restless future burning bright the past is holding on so tight never heard the warning bell and I just want to wish you well I just want to wish you well welcome swallows dip and swing take their cue from the slightest thing rolling fog into my room why did you give up on me so soon?

so soon

and I just want to wish you well
I just want to wish you well
I just want to wish you well

did you give up on me so soon?
I just want to wish you well
I just want to wish you well
