

Beth, All These Things

You remind me of a place and time I've been before
A new perspective on what took place and what's in store

You remind me of the silence that underpins our lives
You remind me of the morning dew under a clear sky

Maybe it's just like me to say these things
Maybe I enjoy the peace of mind it brings
But lately I've been thinking the truth is that all these things remind me of you

You remind me of the simple power of naked skin
You remind me when I'm out there, I'm there to win

You remind me of the sun's bold descent into darkness
And every time that it rises it makes me fearless

Maybe it's just like me to say these things
Maybe I enjoy the peace of mind it brings
But lately I've been thinking the truth is that all these things remind me of you

You remind me of my first love touch
You remind me how I could miss it so much
You remind me how I felt into lost

You remind me of the innocence of a child at play
You remind me of my blessings each and every day
Oh! It's you that reminds me our dreams are made this way
And if I always stay true I guess they'll do the same

Maybe it's just like me to say these things
Maybe I enjoy the peace of mind it brings
But lately I've been thinking the truth is that all these things remind me of you