

Between The Buried And Me, More Of Myself To

You have all wept once more... why? I would never ask for such. Go.

I have realized for once in my existence my true happiness. This is a first time for me... I feel innocent, caring, and non-threatening.

Reincarnation for a better life... becoming one with true harmony. No gods have caressed or burned me, only nature is willing to comfort me.

Salvation is dead and all of you have passed away with me today. I will never have to entertain or please any of you ever again. I am alive.

My memory is the only thing keeping the old tears in my eyes.

I still know that all of you are taking for the sake of not leaving. You are killing the innocent for your so-called nutrition. You are infecting our lands with your filth. You are killing for the sake of your promotions in life.

One day we will all be in this soil... with no gods to slave to, and no heroes to kill for.