

Big Sugar, Bump On The Head

(G. Johnson/APJJ)

Feels like the sun never shines on this poor man's yard
And when the nighttime falls, you know it falls down hard
If I had a hold on you I know that I could get through it
Love's like a bump on the head when it comes down to it
Yes it is

I once had the eyes of a child, but I've slowly gone blind
And now I'm reaching around in the dark and don't know what I'm gonna find
If I had a hold on you I know that I could get through it
Love's like a bump on the head when it comes down to it

Well it feels like a bump on the head
My ears are ringing with the words that you said
Love's like a bump on the head when it comes down to it
And you're layin' such a beatin' on my brain
Lying here without you again
Love's like a bump on the head and I can't stand the pain

Somethin's gonna bring 'bout a change, but a change in your mind
Can take more time than you've got then you get left behind

And you're layin' such a beatin' on my brain
Lying here without you again
Love's like a bump on the head and I can't stand the pain

Feels like the sun never shines on this poor man's yard
And when the nighttime falls, you know it falls down hard
If I had a hold on you I know that I could get through it
Love's like a bump on the head when it comes down to it

Well it feels like a bump on the head
My ears are ringing with the words that you said
Love's like a bump on the head when it comes down to it
And you're layin' such a beatin' on my brain
Lying here without you again
Love's like a bump on the head and I can't stand the pain
Love's like a bump on the head and I can't stand the pain

Rocks, stones laying in my bed
And my pillow feels just like lead
When it comes down to it
