Bigwig, Sore Loser

I'm guessing some things never change
Sore losers they've just lost the game
Trying to win the battle lost
Some just can't accept it
Some just wanna reject it
Their hearts have been consumed by hate
It takes me back to the kid who had someone fighting for him
Brings me back to a game we played when we were kids
I never played

My mom can beat up your mom My dad can beat up your dad My god can beat up your god too

All of the treaties are the same
Were millions of lives worth the gain the governments using them for
They had children fighting for them
The post-war wont support them
Sugar-coated poison called crusades
It takes me back to the kid who had someone fighting for him
Brings me back to a game we played when we were kids
I never played

My mom can beat up your mom My dad can beat up your dad My god can beat up your god too
