

Bill Anderson, As Much as I Love You

As much as I love you I don't understand you oh girl
It's almost as though you prefer me to them just on the fringe of your world
As much as I love you you're costing me part of my mind
What am I supposed to do with the part of me that you
Don't want but part of the time
As much as I love you why do you lock me outside
And only let me in every now and then what are you trying to hide
As much as I love you I don't understand how you think
Don't you know that it's wrong turnin' me off and on like water you pour down to sink
As much as I love you it's cold on my side of the bed
It's been another day of bein' pushed away and I don't know what I've done or said
As much as I love you I'm lying here wondering why
I don't take off my ring
Pack up my things leave and don't even say goodbye mhm mhm
