

Bill Anderson, I Still Feel the Same About You

The leaves have changed from green to golden at least one time and maybe two
All I know is I feel a hundred years older and I still feel the same about you
Time hasn't been the great physician and healed my hurt like it's supposed to do
Lord I feel like a fool by my own admission cause I still feel the same about you [steel]

I've given everything a man can give it
With a mem'ry there's just three things you can do
You can outrun it outgrow it or try to just outlive it
I still feel the same about you yes I still feel the same about you
